

What is the my money project?

The Government has given a group of organisations (including NCB) money to make sure that children and young people can learn about 'financial capability' in schools. Learning about financial capability means learning about how to look after your money, managing what you earn, spend and save and discover the cost of living.

To be able to do this properly we need to make sure that young people are leading the way and telling us what they want to learn and how they want to learn it. The project has been running for a year but we need three more young advisers to join nine that are already part of it.

You get to travel to different parts of the country to take part in residencies and meet lots of new people. You can be part of a real change that will help children and young people all over England.

You will get your voice heard by the people in Government who will be making decisions about how and what to teach to help children and young people learn to look after their money.

You will be a representative for other children and young people.

You will get to have lots of fun!!

What would I have to do?

A Young Advisor must be able to commit for at least one year (attending three, two-day weekend residential meetings). You will need to be able to attend the first residential which is Friday 11th (in the evening) to Sunday 13th September. As well as that, you would also need to be willing to get involved in activities in between residentials.

What else do I need to know?

You can apply if you are aged above 11 but if you turn 18 before August 2010 then I'm afraid you won't be able to apply. It doesn't matter where you come from in England. It doesn't matter if you haven't done this sort of thing before. It won't cost you a penny!

How do I apply?

Fill in the application form that came with this flyer and send back to us (postal address is on the application form) or you can email it to info@youngncb.org.uk.

If you can't fill in the form by yourself you can ask someone to help you or you can speak to us over the phone instead.

If you have any queries about this please email info@youngncb.org.uk.

The closing date for applications is Tuesday 1st September.
